Angie,
Hey! We had a good time in homeroom & Coach Lytle's class. You're a real cute & sweet girl. Good luck with everything you do! Have a great summer! Love ya,
Laura

Angie,
what's up? not me ^{HA}
we weren't as close this year
than last. (your fault)
Maybe I will see
ya over the summer.

Joe,
Todd
E.

Angie,
Hello. I am so glad that we have had classes together & am glad that we have gotten to be good friends.

I hope that you enjoy
your last two years of S. M. H. like I have enjoyed my senior year. I hope that you have a great summer and I hope that I see you during it. Stay very sweet and attractive.
Good luck and God Bless.

Love
Ken Berland #32

ANGIE,
(THING) Well, Pres., I MORE YEAR IS OVER BUT I CAN'T BELIEVE WE'RE GONNA BE JRS. I'M REALLY
GLAD THAT WE GOT TO BE FRIENDS
THIS YEAR BECAUSE I REALLY LIKE
YOU A LOT. WITHOUT YOU &
KIM IN OFFICE AIDE I THINK
I WOULD'VE DIED FROM BEING
SO BORED. WE HAD A LOT OF
GOOD TIMES AND I HOPE WE HAVE
SOME MORE NEXT YEAR! SEE YA. LOVE

CAPTURED . . .

That's certainly an appropriate word for the feeling of the 1983-84 school year. There are many ways of capturing a feeling, an idea, a year. We, the 1984 yearbook staff, chose to capture the year through music. Music has many styles — mellow, hot, moody, electric. What could be more appropriate for capturing the variety of lifestyles represented at Stone Mountain High?

This year's music caught our lives and held us entranced. It influenced the way we thought and the things we said. It dictated the clothes that we wore, and it told us how to relate to each other. It both impressed and reflected us. The music of the year was a part of us, an ingredient that went into our making. Take time now to remember and to celebrate the year Captured in music.

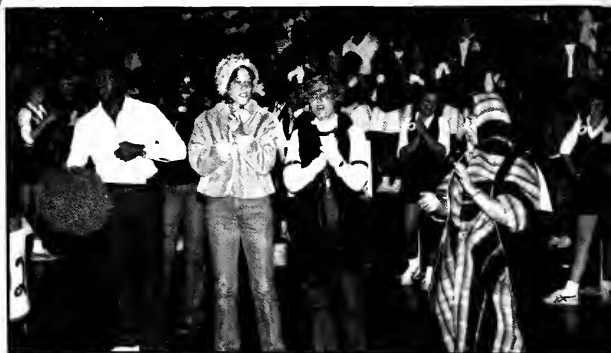

What's It All

If a stranger were to walk through the doors of Stone Mountain High, what would be his first impression of the school? Would he think that we were your normal, every day high school? Appearances can be deceiving. Behind the mask of an ordinary neighborhood high school lies a very special faculty, student body, school. Many of us will do five years worth of growing up at Stone Mountain. We go to classes. We meet new friends. We form learning alliances with our teachers. We join clubs and become involved in sports. This is normal, but behind the norm we are growing and changing. We have our good days and we have our bad. Stone Mountain is consistent through them all. Stone Mountain is a place of learning. Learning that $a + b = c$, learning that Macbeth believes that "it is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing", learning how to make friends, learning team spirit, school spirit, learning about our selves.

▲ It's about the red, white and blue, plus the red and the white.

▼ It's about dedication.

About?

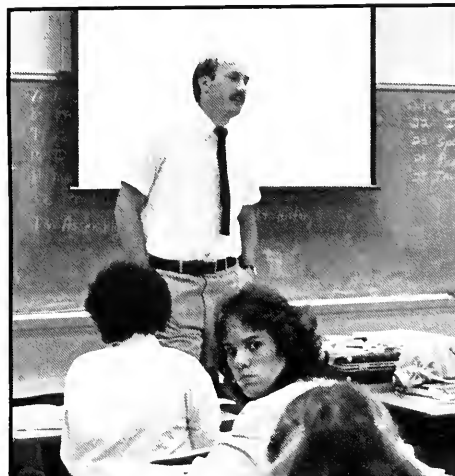

◀ It's about friends.
It's about learning. ▶

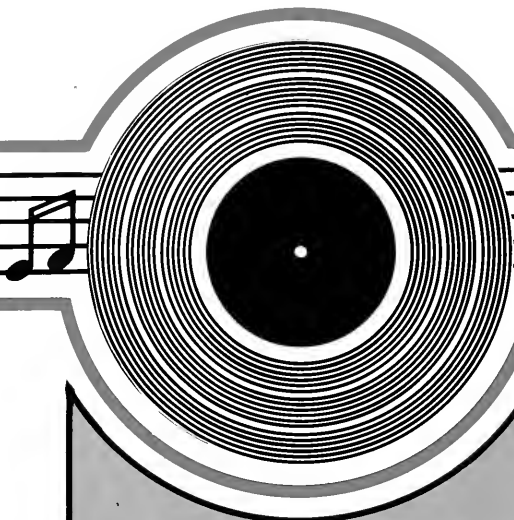

▲ It's about leadership.

▼ It's about caring.

▲ It's about closeness.

The alarm goes off at 6:30 a.m. I smile as I jump out of bed. I have more than one hour before I go to school. My room is full of sunshine; what a glorious day! My homework is done, my clothes are pressed and ready to wear. I sing my way to the bathroom, wash my face and begin to get ready for my wonderful new day. At 6:45 I am downstairs beginning to enjoy a wonderful breakfast. My mother is smiling and chatting with me. At about 7:45 I wave goodbye and leave for school as happy as a lark.

The alarm goes off at 7:30 a.m. "Good grief, what a dream!" I think as I roll over to look at the clock. "Ugghh!" I scream as the clock smashes me back from dreamland into reality. I have less than fifteen minutes to get ready for school, nothing to wear, my homework is not done, and I'm starving. "Goodbye," I shout at my mother as I cram a piece of toast down my throat while running out the door. My day has begun.

Johnny Hailey quietly studies before the school day begins.

▲ Iric McCrary and Tanya Woods catch up on the latest news.

▲ Gale Garner, Tressa Jacobs, and Todd Harkleroad begin their day smiling.

▼ Becky Rockman and Christy Petit relax before the first bell sounds.

▲ Lauren Lewis and Leigh Ann Billingsley dazzle us with grins.

If students at Stone Mountain High were to take a second out of their dizzy schedules to just stop and look around, they would see one particular facial characteristic more than any other. They would see smiles, and more smiles. They would see smiles of every size, shape and intensity, lighting up the faces of friends and teachers and total strangers. A careful observer would be struck by the half smiles and the lopsided grins and the honest to goodness ear to ear face crackers that populate our halls and classrooms. And we can't forget the growing minority of smiles that are so brightly decorated with silver. Where would the smiles of the world be without "tin grins"??

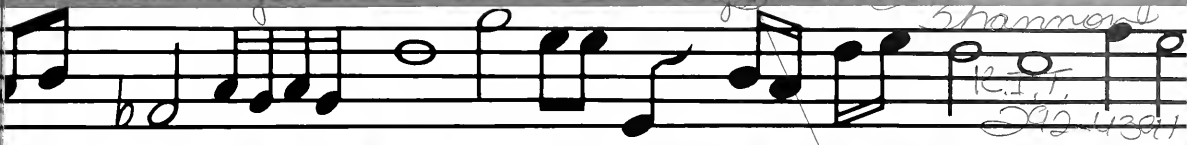

It's true, we Pirates have a lot to smile about. We have friendships and Fridays and music and many other things to keep us grinning. The halls and the hearts of Stone Mountain are literally lit up by the smiles on the faces and the smiles in eyes of the student body.

Key Angel. I'm so glad we became good friends

Friends are such a natural way of life that we sometimes take even our very best for granted. But stop-think about your best friend. Now try to imagine how life would be without this person.

Think of all the wasted laughter; friends make laughter so much more enjoyable. Think of those awful days when nothing goes right; isn't your friend the one that always makes you smile? Think of all the unshared secrets you would have without your friend. Think of all the lost "good times."

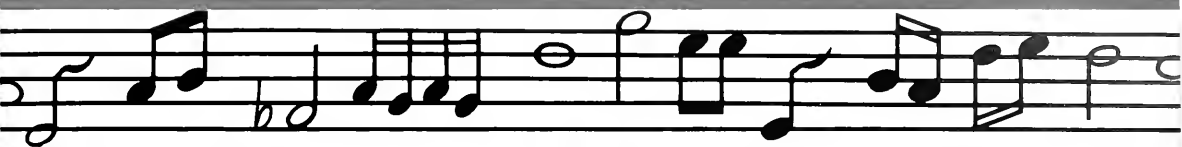

Perhaps if we were to stop more often and think about how very special our friends are and how different life would be without them, we would appreciate them so much more. Friends are such a big part of student life at Stone Mountain High. From the minute you walk into the school in the morning and see those first smiles you know that "You've Got a Friend."

These friends, Gary Storey, Joey Smith, and Alex Comer, "hear no evil, see no evil, and speak no evil."

Rrrrr! And they're off! The faceless mob of 1900 Stone Mountain High students hits the halls with a definite urgency. And why not? There is an awful lot to be done in an incredibly short five minutes. Whatever you do between classes, whether it means getting water, going to your locker, or anything else, everything becomes something of a challenge, sort of like a timed obstacle course in which the obstacles keep moving. As you elbow your way through the halls, thinking about what's going to happen when you are late, you frantically dodge people and swinging locker doors. It's like a life sized game of survival—the art of "stayin' alive!" When you finally break free from the clutching, clawing mass you see your classroom in the distance. You make your last desperate attempt to get to class on time. Just as you dash into the room, you hear a muffled sound. It's the "late bell." Congratulations, you made it!

Stayin' Alive

▼ And Redan thinks they've got problems?

▼ Angela Monroe hurries to third period.

▲ Craig Stevens loads up his "briefcase."

Music definitely influences the way we dress, what we choose to wear. In 1983, one movie and its theme song, Flashdance's What a Feeling, changed the way America dresses. Also, in the eighties New Wave groups made their debut and we were plunged into the world of mohawks, dyed hair, sleeveless shirts, bandanas, funky colored glasses, brightly colored clothes. Valley Girls made their nation-wide opening night via the song, She's a Valley Girl; mini-skirts, plastic colored earrings, like totally new vocabulary, and hair cut into layered bi-levels were born, perhaps reborn.

Do not worry, though, if you're an incurable "prep" because some styles are classics and will always be around. No matter what style you choose to represent, it's all part of Puttin on the Ritz at Stone Mountain High.

▲ Warm-ups were a big advance in comfort and style for 1983, as Chuck Spinks has learned.

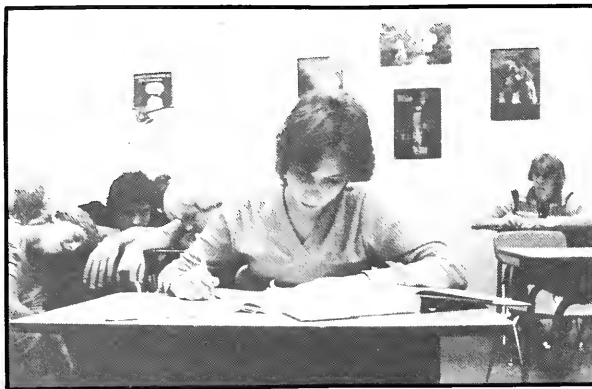

▲ Mirror glasses attempt to hide the identity of Leonard Griffith.

Preppy oxfords and ruffled blouses are favorites of Karen Hipp and Jenny Ferranti. ►

▲ Mary Williamson "puts on the ritz" with this season's hottest accessory, the hat.

Under Pressure

► Brian Greer, Mike Glover, and Lee Gentry forget about work and take time to talk.

▲ Julie Hixson attempts another complex equation in Algebra.

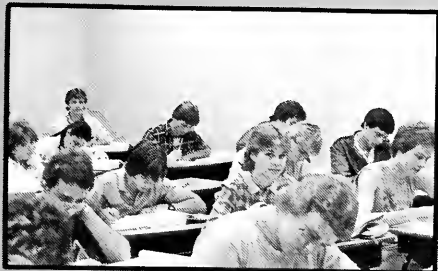

► Lisa Phillips and her classmates take a timed test in typing.

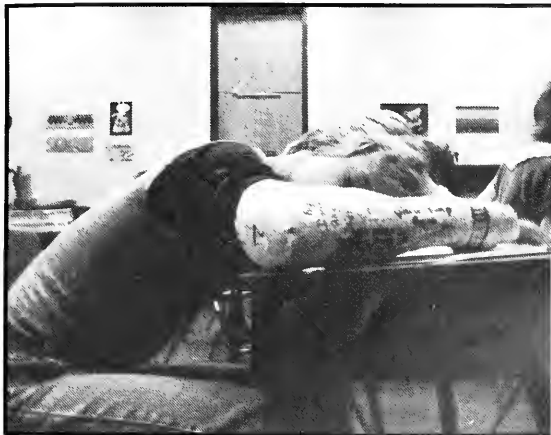

"Pressure, pressing down on me, pressing down on you ..." When Under Pressure was released, David Bowie and Queen seemed to be singing in direct tribute to students here at Stone Mountain High. Just think of the cruel weights that bow our young shoulders: homework, sub-60 grades, research papers, pop tests, and ... Well, you get the picture.

All things considered, school is a virtual breeding ground for pressure. Everywhere we turn we meet not only the challenges of schoolwork, but also some pretty hefty internal pressures, too. Pressures like the irresistible urge to go to sleep during exams; pressures like a definite awareness of that guy or girl sitting next to you. With so many burdens clamoring for immediate attention, it's a wonder that we don't go out of our minds. Somehow, though, we handle the hardships. How do Pirates spell relief? M-U-S-I-C!!!

▲ This class works tirelessly on some intricate problems.

▲ Tina Freeman and Chip Hardeman reflect on topic sentences for their essays.

▲ Sometimes the pressure just gets too great, right Ryan Nunnally?

It's Just Emotion That's Taking Me Over

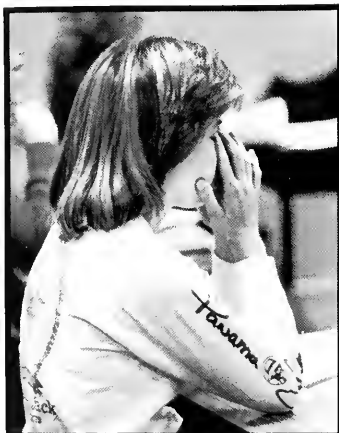

◆ Ms. Hursey is being taken over by astonishment.

♥ Tracey Stewart and Lisa Tilley are taken over by silliness.

◆ David Ryan is taken over by happiness.

♥ April Meek is taken over by seriousness.

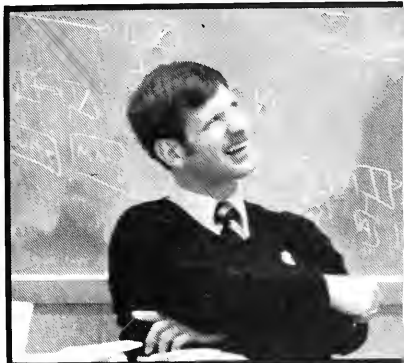

◆ Van Phillips is taken over by reflection.

Emotions at Stone Mountain High might not exactly be "taking us over," but believe it or not, they do play an important part in high school life. Our feelings are the factors by which we grow and mature. Who could survive without them? High school with its endless energy and electricity can provide us with some of the most exciting experiences of our lives; our emotions reflect that. We stand in the middle of the emotional stream, catching the best and the worst of every sort of feeling that ever existed.

What's at the heart of all these feelings? We are! The vibrant and diverse student body at SMH radiates excitement and enthusiasm. In addition to all these good vibes, school can also cause many frustrations, ("The rough draft is due Tuesday?! ..."), and a lot of confusions, ("Two-A times the square root of the inverse of what?! ...") But we're young; we'll get over it. When the going gets tough and the road gets rocky, we have friends and family to help us cope. Because of — not in spite of — our emotions, our high school years are some of the best years of our lives.

▲ Coach Kelly is taken over, period. He's possessed!

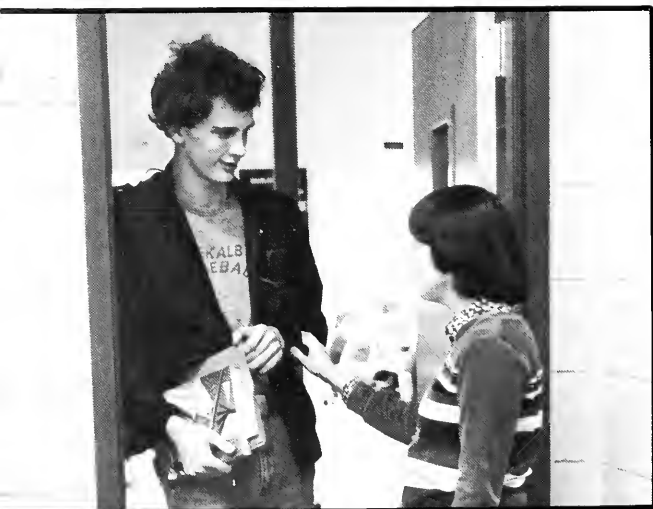

▲ Brian Keefe is taken over by thoughtfulness.

▲ Cindy Heimanson is taken over by fear.

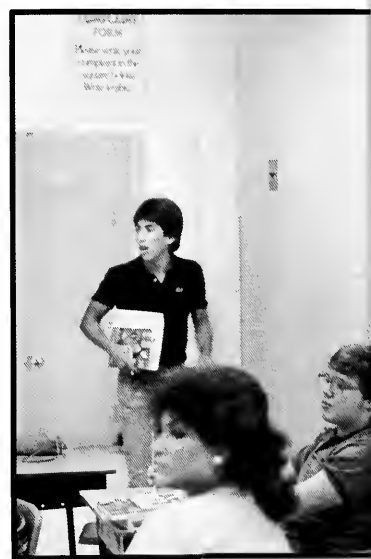

Upside Down

▲ Ms. Niehaus has a talk with John Wichsberg, who has been having problems getting to class on time.

▲ Ms. Wilson demands a hall pass from Kim Rockwell, who lacks one.

◆ Cindy Campbell desperately looks for her lost homework.

◆ Uh, Oh! Late again, Cesar Jimenez?

♥ Jimmy Loisel questions Ms. Niehaus' sanity as she explains a complex equation.

Everyone at Stone Mountain High goes through at least one day when absolutely nothing goes right. This is the day when Murphy's Law reigns supreme, when Lady Luck goes on strike, when that silver lining behind the cloud is strangely missing. Your car won't start. You're late to school, and your first period teacher is the kind that doesn't accept excuses — especially broken down car excuses. You fail a test. You forget your homework. On your way home (you're walking of course) it starts to rain. You're late to work. Your boss asks you to stay until closing. When you finally get home (around midnight) you remember the term paper that's due first thing in the morning. You stand with tear-filled eyes and a quivering chin and ask in despair, "Why me?" The answer? "Because you're there!" Don't have a tantrum. Don't pull out your hair. Just pick yourself up and dust yourself off and remember: No one ever said that life was fair . . .

◆ Ms. Turner catches Mark Gilreath without a hall pass.

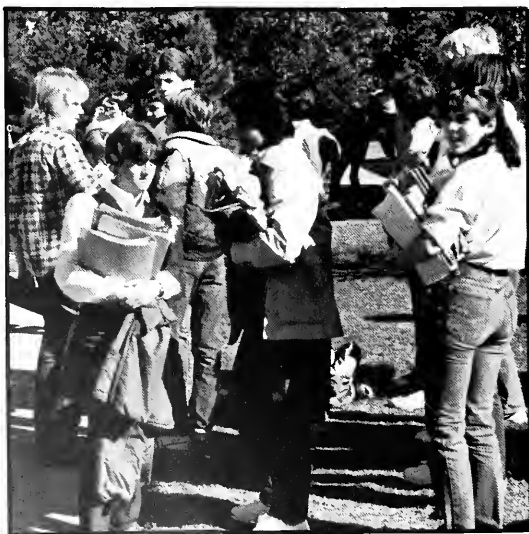

Afternoon Delight

◀ Typical afternoons at SMH are full of "hustle and bustle."

▲ Eager to get home, students load onto the bus.

▲ Waiting for the bus, students catch up on the day's events.

"Goodbye!"
 "Are you coming over to help me with my homework?"
 "When does practice start?"
 "Let's go to Burger King for a Pepsi."
 "I'm late for work!!!"
 "I have homework in all my classes!"
 "Are you ready, let's get out of here!"

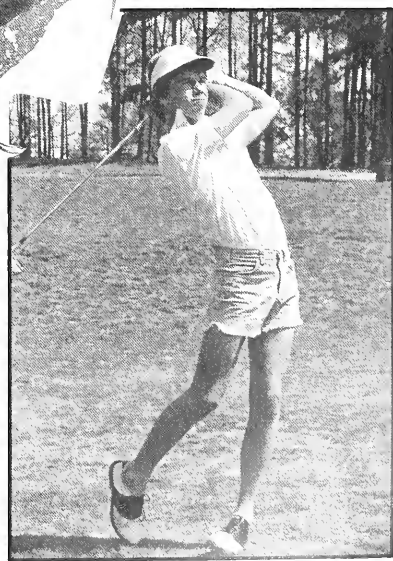

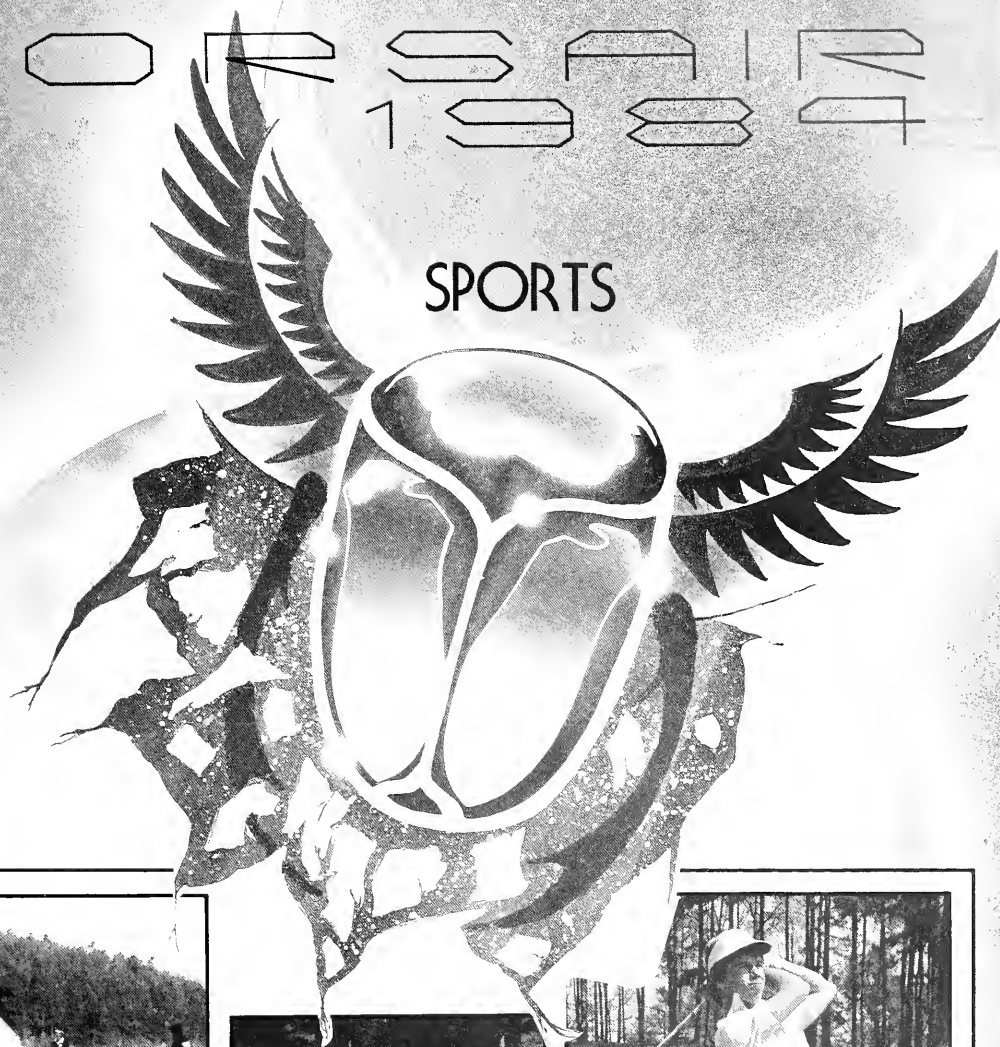

This is just some of the music that rings in the halls of Stone Mountain High after school. When the bell sounds at 3:20 p.m. the entire school atmosphere changes. Laughter and excitable chatter is heard everywhere. Everyone has "places to go, people to see, and things to do." At Stone Mountain, there is no doubt that 3:20 p.m. is eagerly awaited. Afternoon is really a "delight" at the Rock.

Muscles

At 3:30 when the average high school student sits in a comfortable chair with his feet up stuffing his face with potato chips and Coke, the practice fields are swamped with the football players, cheerleaders, majorettes, rifle corps, drill team, and the band. While the football team is running plays and being yelled at, the majorettes and rifle corps are twirling to the music. The cheerleaders are rehearsing their cheers, the band marches up and down the field, and the drill team learns a new routine. The hard work and long hours of practice pay off with a great performance at the game.

The 1983 Varsity Football Team had an upsetting year, with only two wins and eight losses. But this record does not adequately express the effort put forth by many players. At the banquet, awards for outstanding performance went to the following: Dennis Baus (Most Valuable Offensive Lineman), Rodney Buchanan (Most Valuable Defensive Lineman), Tim Butler (Coach's Award), David Green (Best Defensive Back), Tim Gruber (Pirate Award), John Keasler (Blood and Guts Award), James Lewis (Special Team Award), Jerry Lippincott (Best Defensive Linebacker Award), David McNeal (Best Offensive Back), John Moon (Scholastic and Best Defensive Back), Scotty Quinn (Most Valuable Player), and Jeff Watkins (Most Outstanding Receiver).

After second quarter, when most people head for the restroom or the concession stand, there is still playing on the field. Granted it is not with a football, but with a musical instrument. The kicks are not for field goals, but for our entertainment. There are no referees, only drum majors. There are no plays executed, only routines. Sure it's not what most people come to the stadium for, but hey, that's show biz.

The 1983 Varsity Football Cheerleaders were led by Julie Taylor and Mary Williamson, and their sponsor was Ms. Stephens. The cheerleaders practiced hard, built stunts, and painted signs for the games. In addition, they gave the players a breakfast, watermelon after practice, decorated their doors, gave them candy, and held a hot dog roast at Stone Mountain. At camp, this past summer, they received a superior every day, a spirit stick to bring home, and were chosen out of forty squads to compete for the Award of Excellence.

Each year SMH receives a group of young girls who become the new Eighth Grade Cheerleaders. They are new to the thrill of actually cheering at a game or at a pep assembly. Although they don't have the experience that the Varsity or the B-Team have, they learn more about High School cheering as each game passes. This year the new Eighth Graders Cheerleaders have done an excellent job.

Chariots Of Fire

The eighth grade boys finished the season undefeated with nine wins and no losses, winning the Dekalb County Championship Trophy. Team awards were: Most Valuable Runner, John Rafferty; Runner-up, Ralph Holah; and Most Improved, Ho Lin. The B-Team boys ended the season with a record of ten wins and one loss, and brought home the Second Place Dekalb County Trophy. Team awards were as follows: Most Valuable Runner, Bryan Bost; Runner-up, Taft Brown; and Most Improved, Jay Locke. The Varsity boys, this year's 7AAAA Region Champs, finished the season with a record of eight wins and two losses. Varsity boys finished third in Dekalb County and third in the Dunwoody Invitational. The 1983-84 B-Team Basketball Team had a disappointing season this year; however, this was not shown from the individual effort that was put forth. Coach Ken Edwards, though it was his first year coaching a Stone Mountain Team, has nothing but praise for his players. Outstanding performers were: Johnny Orr, "a good defensive player," George Obser, "Quickest defensive player," Steven Butler, "a good shooter," and Freddy Anton, "our most improved player ... a bright prospect for next year." Co-Captains were Mike Foster and Steven Butler.

Everyone has to concentrate to get the job done and done correctly.

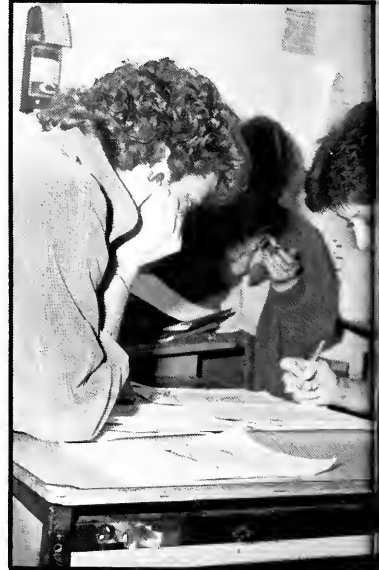

Hopefully everyone at Stone Mountain will see their picture in this year's annual. One goal of the Corsair staff is to give as much coverage to as many people as possible. The Yearbook staff also strives to write good copy, take good photographs, and design interesting pages. The overall goal is to produce a super yearbook; one that reflects the past year with quality and style. Ms. Hursey is the sponsor of the Corsair staff and Laura Brian is the editor-in-chief.

The Galleon is the "trademark" of our school newspaper. The Galleon staff publishes monthly newspapers that inform students and faculty members about current events at Stone Mountain. The stories include student and teacher "spotlights," investigative reports, items of current interest to students, and sports, clubs, and administrative/counselor information. Ms. Brown sponsors the newspaper and Neysa Nevins is the editor. Meredith Kolk comments that "ideas flow" on the staff and Vicki Wilkes has "fun while being productive." The Galleon Staff produces numerous editions of the newspaper in a year. The news is basically good, and few students have to "weep after readin' 'em."

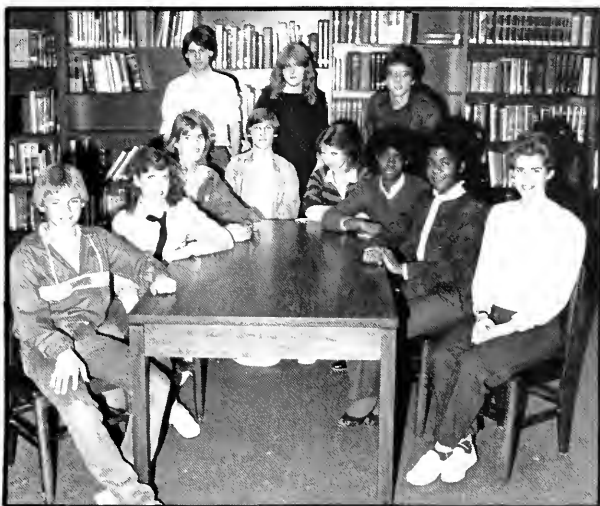

Triscilla Benjamin proofreads an article for the next issue.

1984 was tremendously successful for the Peer Facilitator program. Under the guidance of Mr. Rountree, Ms. Byrom, Ms. Brock, and Susan Chin, the Peer Facilitators advanced their program to a more organized club that proved to be very helpful to new eighth graders and new students to Stone Mountain. The purpose of the Peer Facilitator program is to provide services to eighth grade students and new students that will allow them to make a quick and easy adjustment to a new school setting. Neysa Nevins enjoys "interacting with the eighth grade students and trying to help them with their concerns." Krista Harris comments that she enjoys "learning more about myself through eighth graders . . . this is a really great organization with a lot to offer to many people."

Hard working is a word that describes the National Honor Society. Holding a car wash is one of the ways the club earns money for its projects. This year's projects are collecting money for UNICEF at Halloween, bringing food to the homes of the needy at Thanksgiving and baking Valentine goodies for the teachers. Having an end of the year picnic is a nice way the club members celebrate their hard work. Ms. Hammonds sponsors the National Honor Society. This year's officers are Julie Taylor, President; Dave Morgan, Vice-President; Barbara Creasy, Secretary; and Melanie Foster, Treasurer.

This year's Student Council is very busy. From buying clocks for all the rooms in the school to collecting for Empty Stocking Fund, Student Council does its best to improve both its school and community. In order to raise money to buy clocks for all the school rooms and to buy a salad bar for the cafeteria, club members sell wrapping paper and yarn. Other projects Student Council is involved in include visiting Trinity Day Care Center, sponsoring two blood drives, and selling Spirit Grams to the student body. DeAnn Housley thinks that Student Council "is needed by the school to help support student rights and their relationship between the students and administration." To sum it all up, Molly O'Toole says that the club "helps to unify the entire student body."

Beat It, and Ease On Down The Road

Honor Guard: Kim Swinney and Abby Hunter.

Drum Majors: Brad Jordan and Sharron Riley.

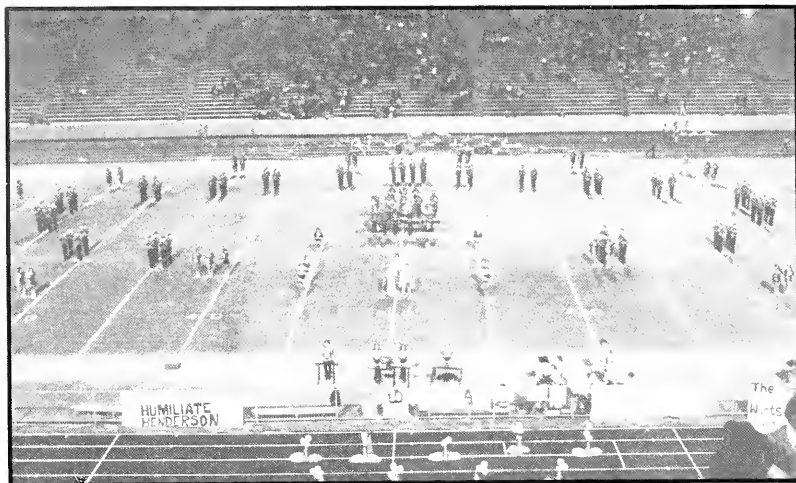

Drum Majors Brad Jordan and Sharron Riley are a vital part of the band. Not only do they conduct the band at half-time, pep rallies, and practice, but they also help in teaching new shows to band members. The Drum Corps is another important part of the band. This year's Drum Corps won third place at the Atlanta Classic Marching Competition. The captain of the Drum Corps is Gerry Hansen. The Honor Guard has been expanded this year. Not only are there two girls who proudly carry the Stone Mountain High School banner, but there are also two other girls who carry rifles and march beside the banner carriers. The captain of the Honor Guard is Abby Hunter.

The Orchestra is another part of the band. Giving excellent concerts, the Orchestra brings additional praise to the Stone Mountain High Band.

The Night Away

This year's marching band at Stone Mountain High was highlighted by two auxiliary groups, the rifle corps and the majorettes. During halftime shows the majorettes and rifle corps "twirled the night away" with flashy routines.

The rifle corps is a talented group of four members. These girls twirl rifles and march during halftime. The rifle corps captain for the 1983-1984 year is Vicki Wilkes. Rifle corps won the title of "Grand Champions" at summer camp.

Stone Mountain High is pleased to add B-Team majorettes to its list of auxiliaries. The B-Team majorettes had a successful summer camp and returned to twirl in all of the B-Team games and at Homecoming. Captain of the B-Team majorettes is Debbie Hill.

Varsity majorettes won first place at summer camp. At a state-wide competition the majorettes received an excellent and a superior placement. To add an interesting new flair to their routines, the majorettes added two batons and tasseled batons to their routines. The Varsity majorette captain is Andrea Reeves.

Stone Mountain is proud to recognize our feature twirler, Cheryl Mitchell. Cheryl won the two titles of "Miss Majorette of Atlanta, 1983" and "Miss Dogwood Majorette, 1983." She also won the First Alternate Trophy for the title of "Miss Majorette of Georgia, 1983." Cheryl was selected by the University of Georgia to be a guest twirler at the Georgia vs. Auburn game.

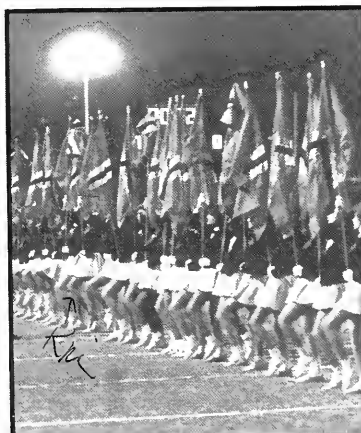

You Should Be Dancing

Second Row: Jami Bernier, Valerie Wood, Angela Carano, Angela Crouch, Lisa Caldwell, Kim Ledee, Laura Carn, Christi Roe, Ruth Sohn, Sheri Enix, Stacey Blisset, Yvette Bermudez, Valerie Ruggles. Third Row: Blair Doherty, Karen Hamilton, Becky Whatley, Cindy Beebe, Jennifer Campbell, Julie Korn, Jenny Naehr, Kim Sanders, Jennifer Torrence, Lauren Lewis, Lisa Enix, Laura Brian, Jill Smith.

This year's Varsity Auxiliary Corps had a tremendous season. Attending "Superstars Camp" at West Georgia College for one week, the girls worked very hard, returning home with the Grand Champions Trophy, proving that they "should be dancing." Also, the Auxiliary Corps attended two competitions, at which they received ratings of excellent and superior. During halftime and at pep assemblies the girls performed upbeat, jazzy routines to such songs as Beat It and Far From Over. Sponsors for the Auxiliary Corps were Ms. Taylor and Ms. Fearing. The corps was under the leadership of Triscilla Benjamin, captain, and Kim Shellman, Amy Standard, Stephanie Starnes, and Lori Williams, lieutenants.

FEATURES

SPIRIT WEEK

Spirit Week is considered one of the best parts of Homecoming, because everyone can participate by simply dressing up in a costume. The classes are rated by the percentage of students in each grade that participate. This year all classes seemed to get into the spirit of things. Monday was College T-Shirt Day. By far, the most widely represented college was the University of Georgia. Beach and Tourist Day was the idea for Tuesday. Students and faculty dressed up in anything they felt was appropriate except bathing suits. Wednesday was Freak-Em-Out Day which included punk, new wave, animal, and even food costumes. Flower children and hippies were seen on Thursday which was Sixties Day. Of course, Friday was Red-and-White Day. Almost everyone was able to participate. Spirit abounded throughout the week, making this year's Spirit Week a great success.

The weekly sign gets a quick look before the mighty Pirates rush through.

Here she is, the winner of the punk day competition, Paula Harrison.

It looks like the Senior class has really captured the spirit of the week.

WHAT YOU FEEL

Deniece Williams

Even the faculty gets a little crazy every now and then.

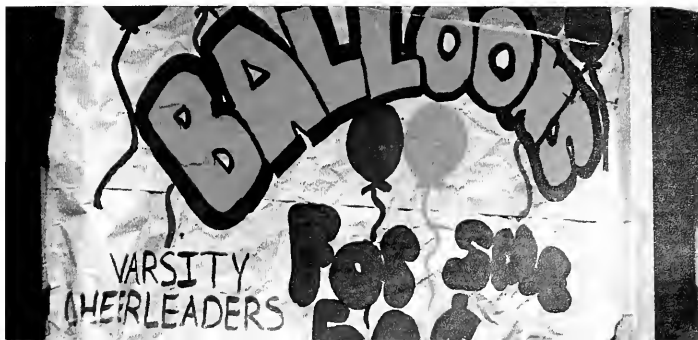

What beach did those clothes come from?

Baggies are in!

Here's another winner from punk day.

WORKING FOR THE WEEKEND

Yes, Scott Bell, we know that the float is that big.
Come on Ms. Mitchell, it's time to get to work.

"Make the float right, girls, or you'll have to deal with me."

Concentrate, Shawn McReynolds. That line has to be perfectly straight.

FLOAT PARTIES

Is it fun playing with toilet paper, Andrea Reeves?

The Juniors found time for a little fun at their float party, too.

Homecoming Week is certainly the busiest week of the year. Part of the hectic schedule is the class float parties. Before the actual float parties begin, the class sponsors and representatives decide on how they want their class to interpret the theme. Then as the Homecoming parade approaches, the work begins. The students and dedicated sponsors spend several hours a night for at least a week working on making their float the best. This year the float contest resulted in a few surprises. The normally victorious seniors came in third! The first place award went to the eighth grade, which was a shock to everyone. Congratulations, Worms, for a job well done.

PARADE

Pirates Rock

Homecoming Queen candidate, Julie Taylor, dreams about being crowned.

She's what you call a "future pirate."

OK, David Green, we believe the seniors are #1.

The tenth grade float travels down Central Drive.

Among the activities of homecoming week are the barbecue and parade. This year's parade followed a new path than in previous years. Instead of its traditional route down Hambrick Road, the parade followed its new course down Central Drive. This year's parade included SMHS' own marching band, directed by Brad Jordan and Sharron Riley. Also in the parade were the Varsity Auxiliary Corps, the Varsity and B-team cheerleaders, and the 8th grade cheerleaders. After this spectacular show, everyone retired to the front of Stone Mountain High to stuff themselves with barbecue sandwiches. Later on as night fell over Stone Mountain High, a large crowd gathered around a gigantic pile of crates as the Varsity football players performed the ritual burning of a Henderson Cougar. Everyone who attended this event will agree that it was a roaring success.

Down ELECTRIC AVENUE

There were a few surprises in this year's parade like Mike Shivers and his interesting costume.

1982 Homecoming Queen, Helen Moon, returns for this year's crowning.

Celebrate Good Times Tonight

Have you found your little niche in life, Coach Schwak?

OK seniors, give yourselves a hand.

Come on Coach Schwak, we know you can do it.

Tim Butler and Scotty Quinn give a pep talk to their fellow players.

Loyalty goes a long way, doesn't it, Mrs. Adams?

PEP ASSEMBLY

Don't you think you could be a little more school spirited, Keith Chester?

Come on guys, get it together.

Alan is a typical pirate on Red-and-White Day.

Traditionally one of the most enjoyable events during the Homecoming week is the pep assembly. This year was no exception. Spirit was at an all time high to encourage the players for their big game. There was plenty of entertainment to keep the crowd going, too. The majorettes, Varsity Drill team, B-team Drill team, and cheerleaders performed snappy routines to the most popular songs. Of course, the teachers also performed their annual skit. This year it was the theme of Return of the Jedi. The students and faculty watched as Darth Cougar was unmasked as Mr. Rumble. Other activities included the introduction of the Homecoming court and the Spirit Week winners. The overwhelming spirit from the assembly prevailed throughout the day and game.

THIS NIGHT Will Last Forever

What's wrong, Jon? No curb service?

Hey guys, what ya looking at?

OK guys, time to change partners.

Looks like an interesting conversation. Joel Phillips.

Careful, Kathi Duverney, that pin is real sharp.

DANCE

Everyone got into the music, especially disc jockey, Jim Beckemeyer.

No respect, huh, Mrs. Woodard.

Karen, a future Dear Abby.

For the first time in recent memory the Homecoming dance was held on the same night as the game. This caused people involved with the game to be a little late. Although there was initial upset, everyone seemed to be able to attend the dance. Instead of a band this year, the students were entertained by a disc jockey and albums. Despite these changes, the 1983 Homecoming dance was a RECORD success.

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES

Twenty-four outstanding students were chosen as the Senior Superlatives for 1983-84. This is a special honor because they were chosen by their classmates as the best representatives for each of the twelve categories. This year due to the lack of original responses from the senior class, there were thirteen run-offs resulting in some very close races. But the seniors responded to the run-off and chose these students as the 1983-84 Superlatives.

Oh come on guys. Mr. Butler isn't that funny!

What do you want to be called, Tim, Mr. SMH or Homecoming "King"?

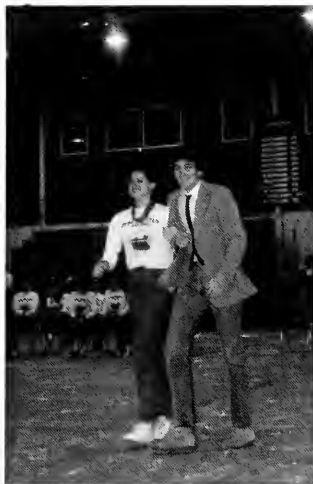

Robert Turner, the student winner of the Kiss-a-pig contest, enjoys his prize.

BASKETBALL HOMECOMING

Joel Philips and date enjoys a dance.

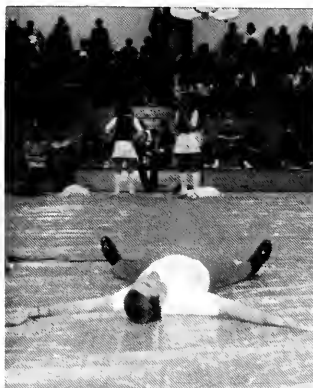

Just because you are runner-up, does not mean you can't walk, Mike Shivers.

Hey, Chris Carrol and Ann Oliva. Whatever happened to dancing cheek to cheek?

Mr. Butler suffers from the pig's revenge.

The Basketball Homecoming Pep assembly this year was quite a success. The student body was very spirited, especially when Tim Anderson won the Mr. SMH contest. During the Kiss-a-Pig activities, there were such chants as "Kiss that pig." We all enjoyed the pep assembly. Another activity this year was the dance. While it was not billed as a Homecoming Dance, it was evident that that was what got the people there. The entertainment was by Supersounds.

SENIOR COTILLION

Bryan, you don't have to take such drastic measures to get her to dance.

One of the most important events for the seniors is the Senior Cotillion. This year it was held on January 21 at the Lakeside Center at Stone Mountain Park, and Danny "Thriller" Miller and the Natural Blend Band provided the entertainment. A date was not a requirement, but having fun was. It was one big party for the seniors, and the band kept the night going 'til around 11:30. The Cotillion will definitely be one of the highlights of the senior year.

Everybody takes a breather while the band announces the next song.

Scott Bell and Pam Bumbalough decide to sit this one out.

Danny "Thriller" Miller and the Natural Blend Band show everybody how to get down.

PARTY TRAIN Gap Band

Danny "Thriller" Miller sings Sail On for the night's couples.

C'mon everybody, let's do the twist.

Lori Barlow and Scotty Quinn try to come up with a few new dance steps.

Boy, is it hot in here!

Everyone enjoys dancing to the tunes played by the Natural Blend Band.

DON'T LET IT END STYX

"Move over, Sherry Glider. I want to be in this picture, too."

It can't be all that bad, Stephanie Pulliam.

"But I don't want to leave, Stacy!"

Michele Eastall and escort walk carefully in the senior walk.

PROM

Can't you think of anything to say to him, Missy?

Smile for the camera, Michele and Kevin.

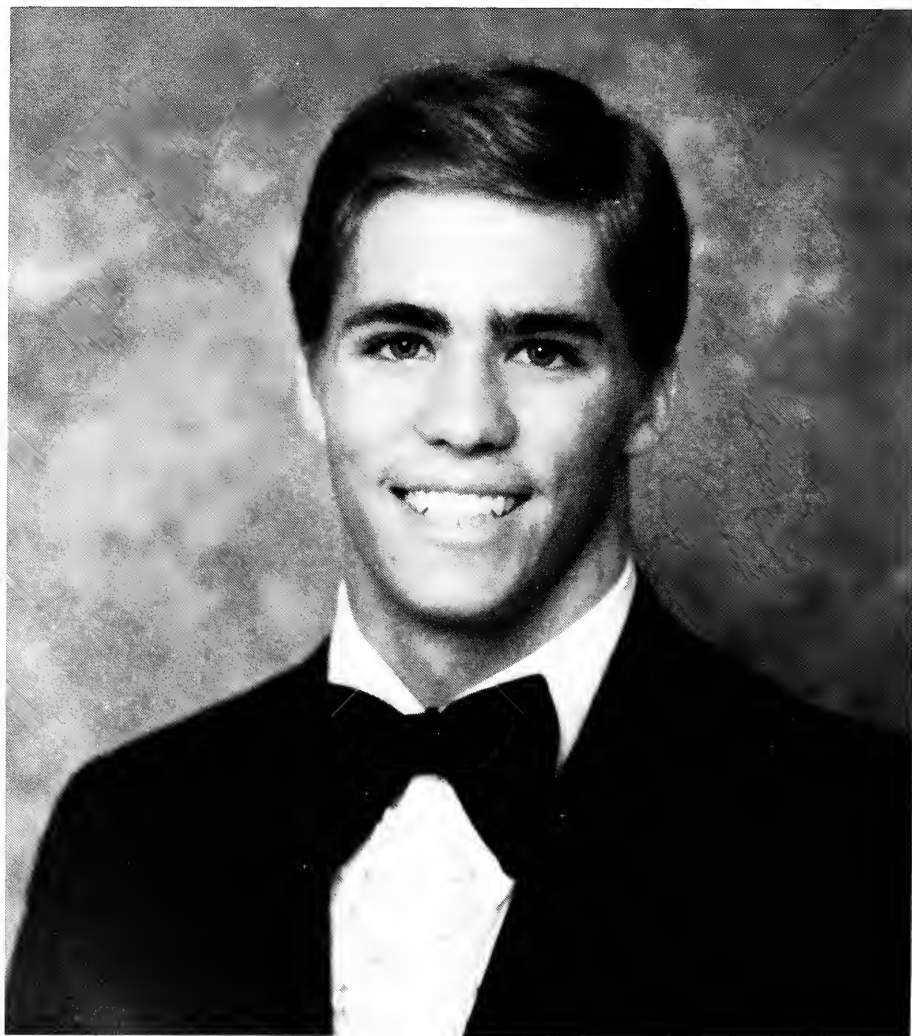

Mr. Perry enjoys dancing at the prom.

Come on, Danny Schweffler, it's not that late.

The 1983 Prom was again the responsibility of the Junior class. They did a fantastic job arranging the location, band, and other necessities to make the evening a success. The chosen spot was the Atlanta Athletic Club, and Out of the Blue was hired as the band. The night was highlighted by the traditional walk of the seniors and their escorts. Juniors and Seniors seemed to agree that the 1983 prom was a first rate success and an event they would all remember for a long time.

This year the annual staff went to the Barbizon School of Modeling to find the judges for Mr. and Miss Corsair. We would like to thank Ms. Jutta Holt, director of education, for choosing Mr. Corsair and Ray Bellamy, an instructor, for choosing Miss Corsair. Mr. and Miss Corsair are chosen from all of the senior pictures for their photogenic qualities. This year the winners are Tim Gruber and Stephanie Pulliam. The first runners-up are Kelvin Waites and Carrie Scarborough. Brian King and Mary Williamson are the second runners-up.

STAR STUDENT/TEACHER & OKTOBERFEST

Beth tells Mrs. Abercrombie that she is the Star Teacher.

Mrs. Abercrombie laughs at one of Beth's remarks.

Each year a senior from Stone Mountain High School is chosen to be Star Student. The Star Student is picked on SAT scores and academic record. This year Beth Bockman was chosen. Beth made a 1500 on the SAT, with a perfect score of 800 in Verbal and 700 in Math. She is in the top five per cent of the senior class. She is involved in the Spanish Club, Drama Club, and National Honor Society. Beth was also selected for Who's Who Among American High School Students. Her course load this year includes three advanced placement classes and a course at the Fernbank Science Center.

Beth selected Mrs. Abercrombie as the Star Teacher who influenced her the most. Currently she is taking AP English under the guidance of Mrs. Abercrombie.

Becky Bockman paints faces at the French Club booth.

Dawn James helps a young customer shoot out the candle flame.

Nicole Majewski samples Latin Club pizza.

This year, as in the past, the foreign language clubs — French, Latin, German, and Spanish — came together to host the Oktoberfest. This year, for the first time in several years, the festival was held indoors, in the Commons. The change was made because of the unusually cold weather and the problem of running extension cords outside.

There were many games to be played — balloon popping, cake walks, ring toss, and many others. Each club also sold food typical of the country it represents. All in all, it was a very enjoyable time for everyone.

Paul Von Wedel seems to be on the wrong side of the French Club sponge throw.

CAPTURED . . .

Not only did we want to capture the mood of the 1983-1984 school year, but we also wanted to go even deeper, to capture the mood of the real heart of Stone Mountain High . . . the people. Though Stone Mountain is a school made up of many groups and clubs and organizations, it is also a school of many fine individuals who make important contributions. Each administrator, each teacher, each student, and each of the staff is first an individual, with a way of thinking and a way of doing things that's all his own. And somehow, miraculously, all of these integral parts mesh together to make up one lean mean Pirate machine.

This section is dedicated to the faces, the moods, the ups and the downs of all the people who make Stone Mountain High School the success that it is. This section is dedicated to you.

ADMINISTRATION

Don't Be Cruel

Mr. Edwards

This guy checks out to be okay. How about your opinion, Ms. McNeely?

This year at SMH we have been introduced to two new members of the administration. Mr. Butler and Ms. McNeely are the newest additions to the staff. Their positions as assistant principals have proved to be a valuable asset to SMHS. But please, don't be too cruel!

Best of luck!
You need it!
Behave yourself
and work hard!

COUNSELORS

Far From Over

Ms. Byrom

Ms. Mears

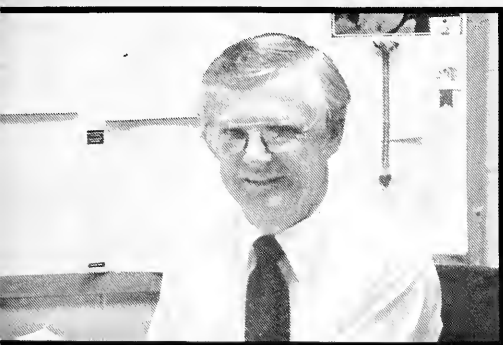

Keith Rountree

Far from over is the song the Corsair believes describes the counselors of SMH. They are never finished with their work. Even though students are so demanding, counselors always keep their cool. What would Seniors do if the counselors were not there to help with college admissions? They also help students with courses and schedules. You can count on counselors to help with all problems, school-related and personal. Stone Mountain says "thanks" to all its counselors.

Ms. Byrom, we're not intruding, are we?

Mr. Rountree is the ideal counselor.

Favorite Songs

1. I Did It My Way — Ms. Adams
2. Just Be My Lady — Ms. Brock
3. A House is Not a Home — Mr. Rountree

SECRETARIES

Tied Up

Ms. Noyes

Ms. Riddell

The secretaries here at Stone Mountain High are extremely important individuals. Without them, the entire school would not function properly. Secretaries are located throughout the building; the front office, Ms. Foster and Ms. Smith; the counselor's office, Ms. Usherwood; the attendance office, Ms. Noyes; the Registrar, Ms. Riddell; and Ms. Wagner, the Media center. Their work involves typing, bookkeeping, helping students, planning and organizing.

Ms. Smith is an excellent secretary here at SMH.

Ms. Usherwood is always willing to help students.

Ms. Usherwood

Ms. Wagner

MEDIA CENTER

Private Eyes

Ms. Wagner is a secretary for the Media Center.

Ms. Isom checks to make sure all films are accounted for.

The Media Center is the quietest place that you will find to study, thanks to our librarians, Ms. Isom and Ms. Weldon and the media secretary, Ms. Wagner. They are always willing to help anyone at any time with term papers and locating information. The librarians are a big help.

Ms. Davis

This year the county-wide foreign language fair was held at North Dekalb Mall in November. Always before the fair had taken place in the spring, and individual students had made projects to be judged. This year, however, the school entered an exhibit which was judged as a whole against other schools. The theme was "In touch with your world through foreign languages," and Stone Mountain French, German, Latin and Spanish students showed how languages influence life and culture here in Atlanta. They demonstrated foreign restaurants, fashion, religion, and architecture. The exhibit showed the broad influence languages have on all of us.

ART/MUSIC

Thriller

Ms. Goeltz leads her class in a song.

Ms. Schmidt participates in spirit week at SMH.

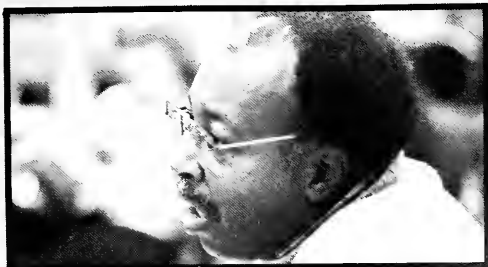

This year SMH had two new additions, Ms. Goeltz, the chorus teacher, and Ms. Scarlett, the art teacher. Ms. Goeltz was not only the new chorus teacher, but she was also the sponsor for the Matmaids. Also, this year Ms. Schmidt headed the Varsity Auxiliary Corps. She teaches photography, and classes that include sculpturing and drawing. Mr. Hodges, who is the director of the marching corps, had an outstanding marching season. His band was nominated to lead the Peach Bowl parade as well.

Ms. Goeltz

Mr. Hodges is very proud of his band.

HOME ECONOMICS/INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Whip It

Jo Adams

The Industrial Arts department has been introduced to a new face this year, Mr. Shivers. His efforts in this department have been highly appreciated by SMH students. Mr. Shivers has proven to be a qualified shop teacher.

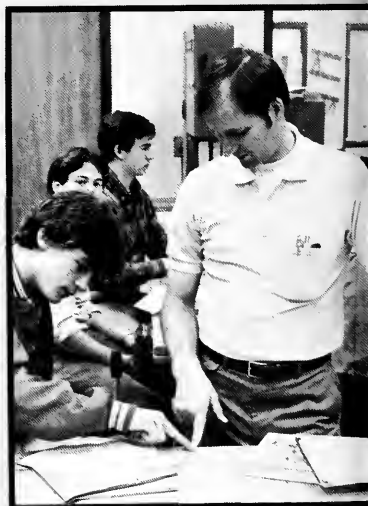

Ms. Jo Adams has also been a contributing asset to Stone Mountain. She makes possible the offering of popular electives such as Breakfast and Brunch, and Creative Crafts. These courses help students learn the fundamentals of life, sewing, cooking, and child care.

Favorite Songs

1. Bridge Over Troubled Waters — Ms. Adams
2. Moon River — Mr. Shivers

Social Studies has proved to be an exciting field of study this year at SMHS. A number of extra special activities occurred throughout the year which were available to students who were interested. The most exciting one was the "Close Up" trip to Washington, where students were able to learn about their government. Mr. Medlin did a great job in organizing the trip. Credit is due to other teachers also: Mr. Jacobus headed the Georgia State Model U.N. in January; Ms. Wilson organized the social studies team, and taught A.P. History classes; and Mr. Rumble taught an American government class, which was offered for the first time in several years. Phyllis Chandler (Junior) was asked by Corsair: "What historical event did you find the most interesting?" Her response was, "The Civil War, because it has had a great effect on our country." Phyllis agreed that social studies can be interesting!

The SMHS Math department has had a quite accomplished year. For example, a new advanced placement computer science course is being offered to students this year. Furthermore, the Varsity and B-Team math teams have participated in three math tournaments. In February, many students entered their projects in the Math Fair. Also in February, several advanced students were given an American High School Mathematics Examination. Also this year, in order to gain an understanding of the student body's attitude toward math classes, the Corsair asked, "Do you plan to take a math course every year at SMHS?"

Sue Sanders (Freshman) responded, "Yes because I plan to go into a career dealing with computer math." The Corsair also asked, "What math course did you enjoy the most?"

Ian Dicol (Senior) said, "Geometry, it was easy."

The Science department this year has worked toward improvement of student awareness of the value of an in depth understanding of various areas of science. The science club has been established to enable serious science students to gain a more detailed study. Other activities, such as the Science Fair in February, help to further challenge the dedicated science students. The science department has also had two new additions to its staff. Mr. Parker, a chemistry and physics teacher, has taken the place of Mr. Shirey, who retired last year. Also, Ms. D'Olivo, a biology teacher, has taken Ms. Rashid's place. Indeed, this year's science department has Blinded us with science.

Ms. Walden takes time off to enjoy a B-team football game.

SPECIAL SERVICES

A Very Hard Act To Follow

Mr. Powell is always willing to help his students.

Ms. Jordan

The Corsair believes the job that the special services do is a Very Hard Act to Follow. The teachers are specifically trained to encourage and maintain a positive learning environment for the special students. Another objective of the Special Services department is to get the parents involved and supportive of their children. But the main criteria for these teachers is to help students with special learning needs.

Coach VanTone congratulates Curtis Epp for a job well done.

Ms. Marino enjoys participating in softball.

Coach Fiacco, the camera is this way.

Coach VanTone awaits to see if the field goal is good.

Ms. Marino

This year's Physical Education department has strived to develop and maintain a well-rounded curriculum for SMH students. The P.E. teachers always provide a wide variety of activities including volleyball, softball, and archery and many more. These activities enable the student to develop skills and maintain a healthy body.

LUNCHROOM

Whip It

The lunchroom staff here at SMHS had a variety of lunches for the students and faculty. Every day they put forth their best effort to prepare a hot lunch for the school. Overall the lunchroom staff did an excellent job in preparing lunches for the students and faculty.

Mr. Shaw, Mr. McKaughan, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Sustakovitch pose for a picture.

Mr. Sustakovitch smiles for the camera.

Mr. McKaughan cleans the parking lot.

Mr. Sanders

Stone Mountain High School had a safe year thanks to our new Security Guard, Mr. Sanders. He was really on the job. Also, the Custodians were really on their toes in keeping the school clean. The Custodians and the Security Guard did a good job in making the school safe and clean for us.

The 1983-84 Cosair
Is Dedicated To
Mrs. Lewellyn

Ms. Lewellyn is an important part of our English Department and of our lives.

Ms. Lewellyn pauses for a moment in her reading.

Every year the senior class selects a teacher who has been special to them over the years, a teacher who has made a conscientious effort to make high school a little more meaningful. This year the Class of '84 chose Mrs. Yolanda Lewellyn as the teacher who has meant the most to them, and, following Stone Mountain tradition, they chose to dedicate the 1984 Corsair to their class sponsor.

Mrs. Lewellyn has been teaching in the English Department at SMH for seven years, and with every year she had added more and more of her own special quality to the already rich curriculum. As one of the many outstanding teachers at Stone Mountain, she has not only filled our minds with conjugations and topic sentences, but she has also earned an undeniably warm place in the hearts of the senior class. For them, the evidence points without question to just one conclusion: Yolanda Lewellyn cares.

To many seniors even the Sound of Silence would be better than the sound of the pirate's Alma Mater on graduation day, because on that day "Hail to thee ..." sounds an awful lot like the Sound of Goodbye. Newly graduated and very unsure, it seems like the seniors' world is Crumbling Down and only Time Will Reveal the course of things to come. When It's Over, it's hard to Say It Isn't So; you're scared and you're not particularly In the Mood for consolation. You keep remembering that just a strange Twist of Fate could make you or break you. You'll be studying All Night Long and probably Talking in Your Sleep as the college course load gets you Delerious. And just when you really get Under Pressure and you want to Give It Up, your friends will convince you to take a break and go with them Puttin' on the Ritz. Soon, after a little rocking on Electric Avenue, you'll realize that it's not So Bad and that you can still believe in Miracles. Every now and then of course you'll still find a good reason to whimper "Why Me?", but as soon as you get into the groove of things you'll be able to counter that with "Ain't Nobody or nothing gonna Break My Stride." One day, about 4 years from now, you'll be able to say "Looks like we Made It!"

IF YOU ONLY KNEW

It's a common phenomenon — the older you get, the more prone you are to give advice to anyone that's younger than you. Well, this year's seniors are no exception. In fact, it was difficult to pick a few answers to our question.

"Tie your mother down, and ask her if she has any homework!"

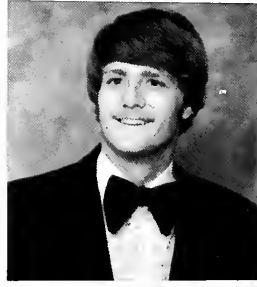

"Live it up! You're at the top!"

"Eat well, brush your teeth, and watch your punctuation."

"Don't worry about what other people think. Just be yourself and have fun during your last year at SMH."

"Do it right 'cause you only get to do it once."

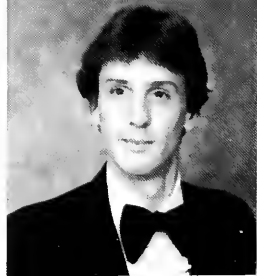

Well, if you want my advice . . . !

Looks Like We Made It

Each year the senior class perpetuates the feeling of nostalgia that surrounds them. Everything becomes a "last" event. The last pep assembly; the last football game; the last Homecoming Parade. All things about the school become suddenly precious as each senior gets closer to graduation.

Well, someone up there must like seniors because somehow tradition has decided that no senior really has to let go completely. Even though you leave the school you can take all of your favorite memories with you. The senior ring and the senior class key are two symbols of not only the senior year, but your whole high school career. These two little pieces of jewelry will mean "high school" to you as long as you wear them; every time you look at them they will bring back different memories. And then there are the traditional cap and tassel. Everywhere these are considered symbols of education and success, but to you they will trigger thoughts of something much closer and much more personal.

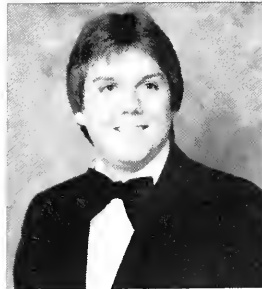

Of course, other things will always symbolize Stone Mountain in the minds of seniors such as the Pirate, the Alma Mater, the yearbook, and the traditional red and white. Through each of these trinkets, accessories or concepts, every senior has a perfect way of taking the most special memories of the Rock with them.

Sailin'

There is a tradition here at SMH; a tradition of pampering our seniors; a tradition of congratulating them for a job well done. On June 18, 1984, many of the newly graduated class of '84' will set sail for the Bahamas. The four day senior cruise will be a shining example of the Pirate tradition. This year's seniors will visit such international centers of fun and sun as Freeport and Nassau by day. In these sun-drenched cities the sky will be the limit. Four days later they will return full of priceless treasures to add to many other special moments of their years at Stone Mountain. What better way can there be to cap off five years of such hard work and education?

I'M STILL STANDING

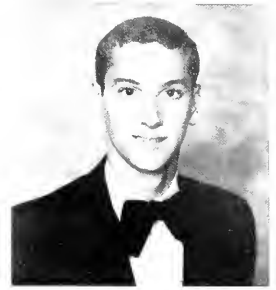

With independence so close, how confident are you about your future? All of a sudden, the future and independence and adulthood are very close and very real. All of a sudden, you are forced to grow up. Senior year is a time for learning about yourself and about your relationships and responsibilities in the rest of the world.

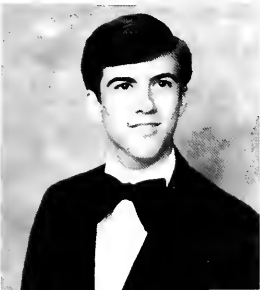

How confident are this year's seniors at SMH? Naturally, when the question was put to them, they came up with many answers, but when the answers were boiled down, only two real ideas remain. Half the answers deal with being scared and confused; the other half, optimistic and sure. Hopefully, by the end of the year all seniors will know what they want in life and they will go out to fulfill their dreams.

I JUST CAN'T WALK AWAY

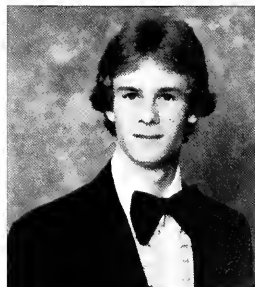

If you could leave a single message for all of your teachers, what would it say? Sure, all of us talk and crab and complain about our teachers nonstop, from eighth grade to graduation — it's expected of us. We're supposed to get mad over term papers, detention, and pop quizzes. As students, vulnerable to all weaknesses thereof, getting hacked off at teachers is a part of our very nature. Nevertheless, somehow, as you get closer and closer to graduation, the old grudges start to wear off. Slowly, you start to remember how much one, maybe two, teachers in particular helped you grow and prepared you for whatever your future may hold. You start to realize the term papers and the quizzes and even the detention all added to and strengthened the person that you have become.

The Corsair staff would like to print one response to our question which, even if you won't admit it right now, seems to speak best for the whole senior class:

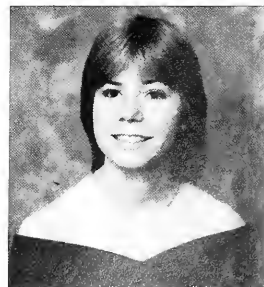

"I wish all my teachers a happy and prosperous life."

The class of eighty-five has a great number of expectations and responsibilities during their junior year. Many juniors are either saving for or buying cars. If they do not have their own cars, most juniors are at least able to drive. Junior year is the year for SATs, so many juniors are anticipating their SAT scores. Another thrill of being a junior is purchasing a senior ring. The biggest responsibility of the junior class is sponsoring the prom. The juniors hope the seniors realize how much work was put into this year's prom. Finally, the juniors know that The Waiting is the Hardest Part when they realize that in just a short time they, too, will "rule the school."

The 1983-84 school year has come to an end. It's at this point in the lives of Sophomores that the question has to be asked, "Do I know where I'm going?" It's time to wonder exactly what the future holds in store. Goals need to be considered, decisions need to be made, and plans need to be carried out. Things such as colleges, SAT testing, and career exploration are crucial factors when it comes to the Sophomore year. At Stone Mountain, Sophomores are trying to gain as much credit as possible for their graduation looming in the future. But relax, kids, you do have two more years to finish everything!

This year's Freshmen class has already been through quite a lot. They have participated in all the fun filled events that led to a successful Freshman year. Homecoming was a success and the Freshmen helped make it so by building a spirit float that will be remembered through the years.

This class of true "red and white" individuals has also earned much respect through their participation in the many sporting events here at SMHS. Without their dedication, this 1984 year would not have been what it was. It's time the rest of the school sat back and took notice of the Freshmen class. It's time to realize just "How Sweet It Is", thanks to the class of 87.

Remember those "hot shot" Seventh Graders who used to rule the school? What happened? They went from the top straight to the bottom again. Every year Eighth Graders are treated the same ... like "Short People." They have to put up with so many pranks and tricks played upon them by the Upperclassmen. These range from being dubbed "Worms" to being sold elevator passes to getting thumped on the head by Senior rings. What they have to put up with! The only condolence to the fact that they are treated like second class individuals is that the misery will soon be over. It won't be long before this year's Eighth graders become tomorrow's Senior class. So next time you see an Eighth grader at the mercy of an older student, stop and think ... that short person may be a future astronaut, future scientist, or maybe even a future President. But for right now, he's just another human being with a lot of patience.

Gary Currie, Cliff Battle, and Mark Christian have a chance to talk during the pep assembly.

1983: A THRILLER Year

When the year 1983 ended with Michael Jackson's "Thriller" album on top of the charts, a "thriller" year drew to a close. The year was truly full of thrills, chills, and spills. There were moments of glory, and moments of disaster. It was a year full of emotional and challenging world affairs. It was a year of losses and a year of triumphs. We said a sad goodbye to old favorites and we waved an enthusiastic hello to new favorites. All in all it was a "thriller" year and too exciting to forget.

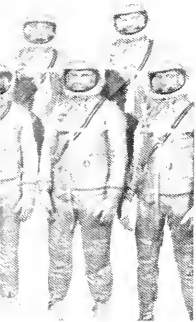

Remember the thrills . . . Michael Jackson hit the charts with six "Top Ten" singles and sold more than twenty-three million LP's worldwide. Remember the chills . . . Korean Flight 007 was brutally shot down and 269 innocent people were killed. Remember the spills . . . James Watt resigned after boasting that "I have a black, I have woman, two Jews and a cripple. And we have talent." Not anymore. Remember the glory . . . Sally Ride becomes the first woman in orbit; A new queen is crowned and makes her mark as the first black Miss America; and do not forget a native Georgian whose soft sculpture idea became an engulfing passion; thus the "Cabbage Patch Kids" were born.

Sadly, with the glory also must come the tragedy. 1983 was the year of the servicemen. With more eruptions of fighting, America dispatched troops from Grenada to Lebanon to Beirut. Tragically the Marine compound in Beirut was bombed and 218 Marines, 18 sailors, and 3 soldiers lost their lives.

Worldwide events also affected our lives. The fighting in the Middle East and South America affected political relationships everywhere. Menachem Begin resigned as prime minister of Israel. President Reagan made a diplomatic tour of Japan. Also, Queen Elizabeth II made a rainy but eventful trip to our own West Coast. Nuclear arms were once again headlining the news with world wide demonstrations against the warheads and a television special that strangely coincided with the real-life drama. "The Day After," a program about the horror of nuclear war, was aired and met with much acknowledgement, good and bad.

Happily we saw the Rebels triumph with the "Return of the Jedi." Passion simmered in the Land Down Under in the ten hour mini-series "The Thorn Birds." We gained new favorites on television with "Cheers" and Mr. T.'s "A-Team." "The Right Stuff" grasped the excitement of the past while "Flashdance" set the mood for the future. And finally MASH filmed its last episode as 125 million viewers said goodbye to Hawkeye and Hotlips. The year brought the deaths of such favorites as Paul "Bear" Bryant, Lillian Carter, Jessica Savitch, and Karen Carpenter. We balanced the losses by gaining new heroes, new favorites. Mr. T., Joan Rivers, Eddie Murphy, and more importantly the U.S. Servicemen gained our admiration.

Overall 1983 was an exciting year. At times things looked glum but American Spirit prevailed and we overcame the worst. We had many reasons to celebrate and many times of triumph. The year was truly a thriller and not one we will soon forget.

Angie - we were in the gymnasium and for year finally about 400 of you. I felt to be big JUNIORS. I met
I more fast and
we were walking
anyway we were told some great times in all our classes this year and I'm sure we have more over the
year better all me.

I love ya,
Jennifer

Well we made it through another year
+ we are almost seniors. I hope you feel
+ I have had some good times. I don't not enough. I want you to go out + stay in touch in summer. I you are definitely going to be with Patrice. Thanks to Mr. Butler + other adults we have + send an invitation skip + this we need to start doing something with it. I hope we'll if you come in, just casual. Well
I hope to go but I'm already over my.

I Love ya,
Jennifer

You are a very sweet & nice and a cheerleader
I really like you a lot
I do hope that I will see you sometime this summer.

P.S. I hope you will have a nice summer.

Love ~~that~~ KK 00

DEAR ANGIE,
I'm glad me and you are friends I don't know what I would do without you in geometry. I've known
you since last year
and I don't forget
it. I appreciate your love friendship - and your special and sweet gift.
I'll probably see you over the summer but I'll miss you just as much as you
miss me without me.

Angie

Sory we didn't get any classes together
but we are good friends
I like to talk to you about my problems I hope you want to talk to me.

Angie,
Well, wasn't typing fun?
without it wouldn't have been my day. Thanks for the "help" during baseball season. We would never have won any games without you. Of course, we'd probably still be playing if it weren't for you. Well, thanks anyway. Have fun at SMH your last two years. Try to be the best. Good luck
with everything you
do.

Love ya,
Robbie
